PRIVATE TRANSFER TO LA GRANJA DE SAN ILDEFONSO

Private Visit to the Royal Palace of La Granja, Felipe V's favorite palace, summer residence and retreat place

The Royal Site of La Granja de San Ildefonso, declared a Complex of Historical Monuments, is one of the best examples of the monarchic splendour of the 18th century. Philip V, the first Bourbon to reign in Spain, fell in love with this beautiful place in 1717. Such was his "crush" that he decided to build a palace and gardens there, decorated with sculptures and fountains that reminded him of his childhood at the French court of his grandfather, Louis XIV. The creation of this Royal Site was his personal great work; he had found the ideal place to retire from the world...A refined cultural experience within one of Europe's most exquisite royal estates.

The Gardens

For Philip V, the gardens were just as important as the palace, which is why he put a great deal of effort into them. The gardens of the Royal Site of La Granja are the best example in Spain of formal gardens in the French style, a style that began to spread throughout Europe at the end of the 17th century, following the popularity of the creations of André Le Nôtre, the gardener of Louis XIV, the famous “Sun King”.
